

Prince George, VA

The Area

Named for Prince George of Denmark, Prince George County is located 30 miles south of Richmond, the capital of Virginia. 400 years of history surround Prince George and its close sister, Hopewell. The area where the James and Appomattox Rivers meet before their slow journey to the Atlantic, is steeped with early colonial progress. Riverside former plantations dot the area of early settlement when tobacco was like gold.

Historic churches show the important role of faith in our country's development and still stand as cultural centers of the region. The residents of Prince George are eager to show off their town and tell you about the way history has made them who they are and how you can be a part of their story.

Many homes in rural areas need your help, and the residents are excited to share their lives with you. Neighborhoods are tightly knit and can be helped by our willingness to spend time improving their community.

Our Partner

The surrounding counties of Richmond have been served by this organization for 50 years. This amazing Cosponsor has hosted us in Dinwiddie and Hopewell. They are dedicated to combating poverty through direct action and aid provided to individuals and families. They offer youth, adult, and senior service programs that reach far and wide in the capital region. A home repair Workcamp is a perfect fit for our partner in Prince George.

Lodging Information

Participants will stay in a facility that is *fully air-conditioned and has indoor showers! There will be 7 private showers for both females and males. Everyone will be sleeping on floors, gender separate, so bring your air mattresses. *Subject to change.

The Need

Projects include installing trailer skirting, full house paint jobs, and construction of ramps and porches. Some sites are so close to each other you may end up sharing tools and materials with other crews. Other worksites will be in the secluded, rural countryside.
